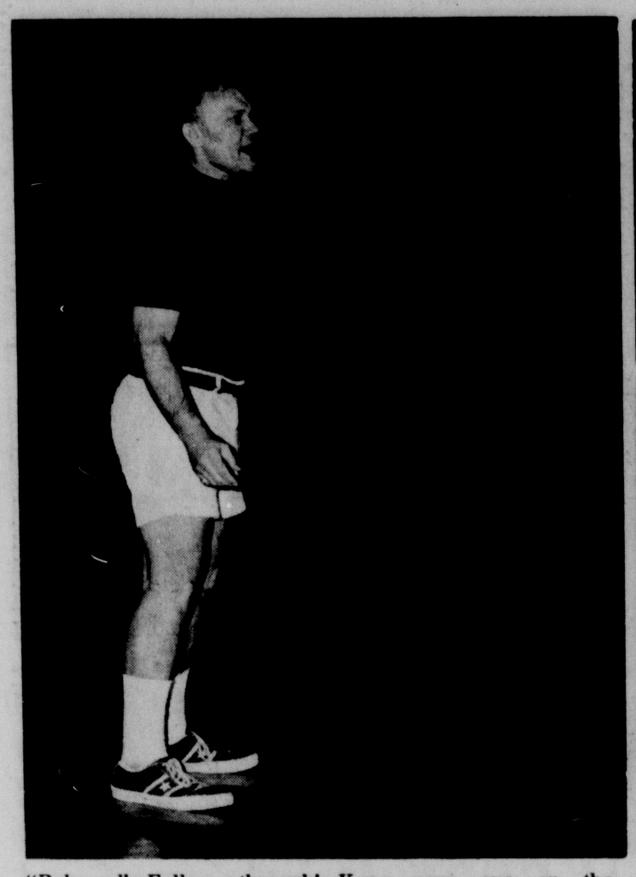
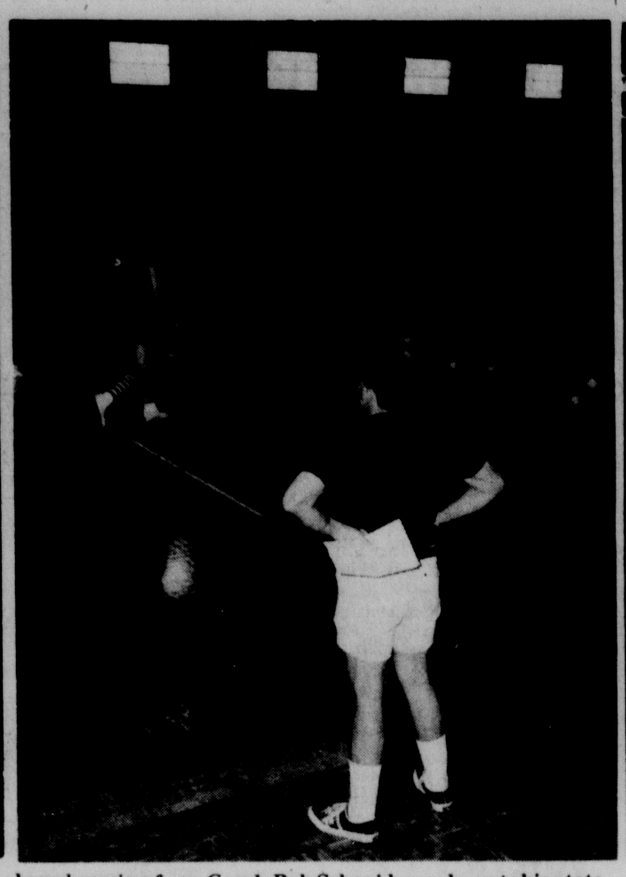
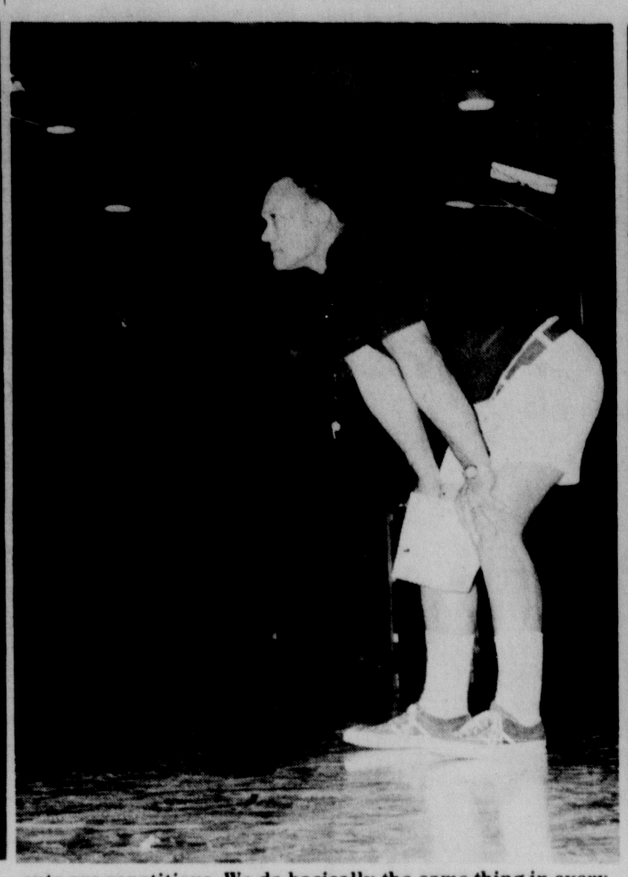
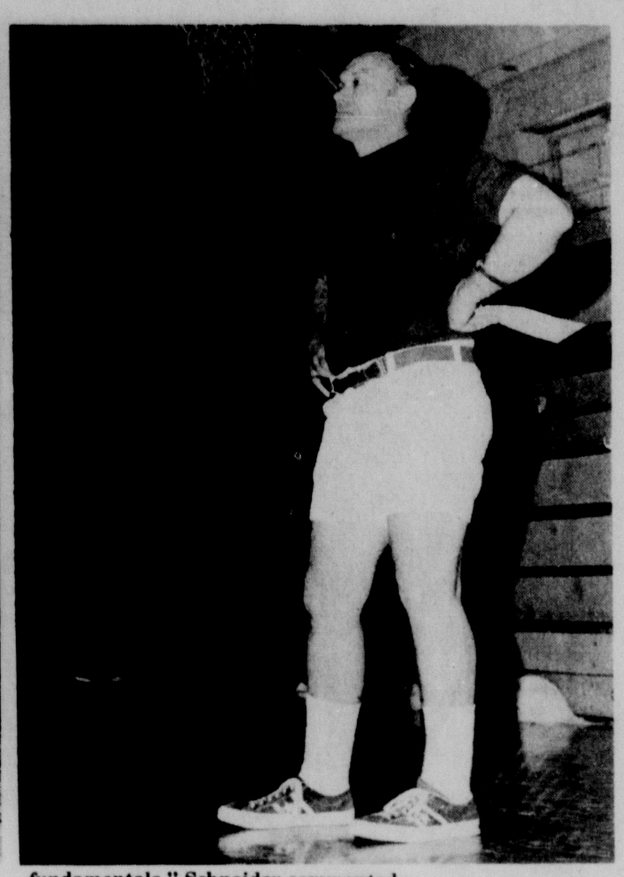
VOL. 78 NO. 47 CANYON, TEXAS THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27,1975 12 PAGES 15 CENTS









"Rebound! Follow through! Keep your eye on the ball! Don't let her beat you like that! Trap! Good job! Better, Better!" These are but a few phrases that can be heard coming from Coach Bob Schneider as he puts his state playoff-bound team through a vigorous, intense workout. Schneider's philosophy is one of fundamentals. "My workouts are repetitious. We do basically the same thing in every workout, hoping to learn the fundamentals of the game. We try to improve with each game by continually improving our fundamentals," Schneider commented.

Eaglettes Head For State Crown Again

By BEELEE GOODWIN

For the seventh consecutive year, the Canyon High School Eaglettes of Coach Bob Schneider will be making their presence known in the Class AAA state championship playoffs.

The Girl Eagles blasted their way into the playoffs Saturday night by defeating Azle 103-40 in the regional championship game played at Sweetwater.

Under the guidance of Schneider, the Canyon girls travelled to Sweetwater to play basketball and play basketball they did.

All-Stater Robena Johnson burned the baskets for 49 points and shot an extraordinary 73 per cent from the field. Louise Davis balanced Miss Johnson's inside attack with outside shooting that netted 31 points. Becky Williams also hit the double figures with 10 points. Miss Davis and Miss Williams had high shooting percentages of 69 and 56 respectively. The team percentage was 61.

Rounding out the scoring, Deedy Johnson tallied six points, Brenda Stevens had four and Pam Woolsey added three.

The defensive corps had an excellent night. Following a 52-30 half-time Canyon lead, the Azle girls scored only two points the third quarter and just eight in the final period.

The Canyon forwards showed their defensive prowess time after time in not allowing the Azle guards to get the ball past the mid-court line to their forwards.

Canyon caused Azle to turn the ball over approximately 50 times. The Eagles lost the ball only 12 times.

Penny Peckenpaugh led the Canyon guards with a defensive grade of +12. Denice Hamblen was next with a +9. Lisa Cathey, Polly Crawford and Marci Davis all had grades of +8. Renee McDonald and Cheryl Brown had grades of +3 and +1 respectively.

Tomorrow night at 7 p.m. the Eaglettes, 34-0, will meet Callallen, 27-10, in Austin's Gregory Gym in one of the two state semi-final games. The girls go into the playoffs as the defending state champion.

Except for the fact that Callallen's forwards stand 6-2, 5-11 and 5-6, Schneider doesn't know very much about the team his crew will face tomorrow night. "We will run our basic defense and offense and make adjustments during the game as we see fit," the coach said. "It's important that we play our own game," Schneider added.

The girls will leave for Austin Thursday morning at 8 .m. and stop for lunch in Abilene at approximately 12:30 p.m. They will arrive in Austin around 6 p.m. and will stay at the Stephen F. Austin Hotel.

In the event of a Canyon victory, the girls will meet the winner of the other semi-final game that has Waco Midway, undefeated in 33 games, against West Orange, 26-6. That game follows the Canyon-Calallen clash at 8:30 p.m.

The finals between the two winners will be played Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

These youngsters at Rex Reeves Elementary School display the fickle weather that the Panhandle has throughout the year. This short-sleeved picture was taken Tuesday during recess. Three days earlier, the Canyon area was covered with snow and blizzard-line conditions.

Box Defeated In Power Struggle

In a split 5-2 vote on a seemingly innocuous resignation, Chairman Cloyce K. Box was defeated in what appears to have been a power struggle which unfolded Wednesday in a 2½ hour executive session of the West Texas State University board of regents.

Regents voted to accept the resignation of Emilio Cabellero as head of the university art department and his reassignment to teaching. Such action had been recommended by the school's administration.

Sources which would not be identified said Box had favored refusal of the recommendation.

Voting to refuse the resignation were Vice-Chairman B. Raymond Evans and Secretary Don Curry. Since there was not a tie, Box did not vote on the matter.

Voting yes with the administration were Regents Irby Carruth, Wallace Harrell, Jack Shelton, Dick Todd and T.L. Roach.

Dee Osborne, newest regent, was not present. Box told the group Osborne was in Washington on behalf of efforts to retain the oil depletion allowance.

No inkling leaked out of the executive meeting as to why a seemingly routine resignation loomed so large.

Actual vote on the matter came in open meeting as required by law.

In calling the closed meeting, Chairman Box cited the law under which he was calling it.

Regents authorized WTSU President Lloyd Watkins to negotiate with Dr. Albert Mitchell to become dean of the school of business. Dr. Mitchell already is a member of the faculty of the school.

Commission Seeks Power From State

Randall County commissioners will apparently push a bill during the current session of the Texas legislature which would give them new powers to zone and regulate subdivision developments within their boundaries.

Commissioners met in informal session Monday afternoon following their regular meeting and eyed a bill which has been introduced already, but which could be rewritten to aid Randall County as it tries to deal with constitutionally-handcuffed methods.

The commissioners agreed to work on a copy of the bill handed out Monday by County Clerk LeRoy Hutton and to bring back their suggestions for improvement next week. Hutton had briefed the bill for the commissioners and noted that it appears to be the kind of legislation needed to remove the shackles from the county government.

The bill is described as a land management bill and would strengthen the county's power to control the rapid development of subdivisions and industrial and business property outside the city limits of Amarillo and Canyon.

Commissioners have said in the past they would favor legislation granting them limited ordinance-making powers, but have rejected the concept of home rule.

Commissioner Jim Fletcher urged other commissioners to examine the proposed bill, work up suggestions, and discuss the measure again at their next Monday's meeting.

"If the county doesn't take hold of this the state will and they'll have a man up here to take it over," he said. "We can work with the cities and it would be

Canyon's Grammy Nominee Ready For Awards Night

Canyon's Grammy Award nominee, Dr. Charles Townsend, leaves for New York City today to attend the 17th annual Grammy Awards presentations, and now he's anxious to see if he'll bring one of the small gramaphone awards back with him.

Townsend, who never expected a year ago that a brief exposition on the life and music of Bob Wills, famous country swing music star, would catapult him to New York for the prestigous awards.

Townsend will attend all Grammy Award festivities, including a big banquet Saturday night where the award for the category in which he is competing will be announced.

He said that even though the Grammys for his category — Best Album Annotator — will be presented at the banquet rather than during the televised awards program which begins at 10:30 p.m. New York time, announcement of the winner of his category will be made on television.

The West Texas State University history professor, who is author of a soon-to-be published volume of the life of Bob Wills, learned Monday who his competitors are for the award he seeks.

Gas Wildcat Well Is Dry

The third gas wildcat well drilled in Randall County during recent years is a dry hole, according to a spokesman for Arkla Exploration Co. of Shreveport, La.

Steve Nippers said drilling was ended earlier this week east of Canyon and the hole is now being plugged. The well was to have gone to a depth of about 8400 feet.

Another Arkla wildcat, this one on property west of the city, was also a dry hole.

One well begun last fall, drilled by Pan Eastern of Oklahoma City on property just east of the Camp Don Harrington area, has also been plugged.

"It looks like we got a dry hole," Nippers said of the Arkla well which was drilled on property about five miles east of the city. "We've stopped drilling and we're plugging at the present time."

Nippers did not speculate on whether Arkla, which owns other mineral leases in the county, would drill other wells in Randall County.

"We're just going to have to sit back and take another look and re-evaluate," he said. "Nothing is planned in the immediate future."

Virtually each section in Randall County is under lease to oil and gas firms, thirsty for new well field finds.

The Arkla wells are added to a long list of wells dug in late 1960s, early 1960s and 1950s. No successful wildcats have been recorded.

Voters May Be Asked For School Bond Issue

Tentative and only speculative cost estimates from Canyon Supt. of Schools Jerry Jacobs indicate school district voters could be asked next fall to okay a bond issue of between $6 and $8 million for construction of two new schools.

Amarillo architects have completed initial drawings of a new elementary school for the district and of a new high school plant. School board members have yet to decide where to try to locate a new elementary school. They have purchased a 65-acre tract of land just south of Hollywood Road north of Canyon for possible construction of a new high school and junior high.

Seminar Seeks Industry

A training seminar to help Canyon residents in their pursuit of light industry for the city will be held beginning at 1:30 p.m. March 6, sponsored by the Canyon Chamber of Commerce and the Southwestern Public Service Co.

Key community leaders will attend the seminar to learn how they can more effectively woo industry to Canyon. Any other interested resident is also invited to attend.

The Texas Industrial Commission will lead the training sessions.

Chamber President Weldon Trice said the seminar marks another major move on the part of local residents to seek, find and convince a small industry for the Canyon vicinity.

Admitting that neither he nor many others in Canyon know exactly how to go about the wooing of industries, Trice said the seminar should provide step-by-step approaches for finding and convincing industry.

Chamber Manager Roland Black said the sessions, which end at 5 p.m. March 6, will center around the mechanics of preparing proper presentations for potential industrial re-locators.

"Canyon needs an industry," former Chamber President John Childs said. "It doesn't have to be a large one, but if we could get a small one in there it would help us tremendously."

Now, Childs said, is the time to begin seeking industry.

"We need to get out and seek industry during this time of economic slowdown because when it picks up again we'll be competing with other people for the same industries," he said.

The seminar should answer the question "How do you go about seeking an industry?" he said. "They'll give us some training on the team concept to help bring industry to Canyon."

Canyon civic leaders have worked hard during the past two years to convince industries to relocate to Canyon. But, no fruits have been borne by their efforts.

Childs said the chamber does not now have any specific industries in mind to contact.

Overpass Sought On Hunsley Rd.

Canyon city commissioners, meeting in special session Tuesday night, passed a resolution calling for the Texas Highway Department to construct an overpass at the Hunsley Road intersection with U.S. 87 north of the city.

The resolution was handed over to Ed Timmons, THD official, who told commissioners the project could be funded within the next two years.

Timmons made a formal presentation to the commissioners of a drawing of the Canyon urban system for federal aid to highways. Under the program street improvements and the overpass might be paid for by the federal government.

Commissioners approved the system guideline.

Animal Wastes Disposal Attempt Blocked By EPA

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has overruled a decision by state health and water quality officials allowing a Deaf Smith County feedyard to dispose of animal wastes in a lake at the mouth of Frio Draw.

Paul Ferguson, manager of Buffalo Lake Wildlife Refuge, said he was told last week that the EPA has turned down the request of Friona Industries, Inc., to use Fry's Lake for dumping sewage from the feedlot operation. The action overruled state action which would have allowed the yard to dump effluent into the lake.

Ferguson and a local ad hoc committee to study the future of the Buffalo Lake as a recreational area as well as a wildlife haven had been watching closely for the rulings, which, if the other would possibly have added pollutants to Tierra Blanca Creek and then to Buffalo Lake itself.

Representatives of the ad hoc committee travelled to Lubbock nearly a year ago to protest the use of Fry's Lake for dumping the animal wastes.

Hereford area feedlots have been accused of polluting Buffalo Lake originally.

Currently, the lake is nothing more than a dry bottom, but Ferguson and other federal officials are working on projects to revitalize the lake. One part of that effort would be to keep pollutants from reaching the lake through Tierra Blanca Creek.

The site of a fatality was recorded at the intersection of U.S. 60 and Farm Road 168 in downtown Umbarger Monday afternoon, Feb. 24. The pickup camper in which Oscar E. Thomas, 91 of Canyon, was sole occupant is shown as it came to rest following the broadside collision with a cattle truck being driven by Ray Lindsey of Hereford.

by Troy Martin FROM THE CANYON RIM

Charles "Bud" Townsend has put my old home town, Turkey, Texas, on the map as the birthplace of country music and the home of Jim Bob Wills.

Doctor Townsend is up for a grammy award this week for his work on the Bob Wills album released this past year.

Turkey, baked by drouth and washed by torrential rain on occasion, might not look like much but things haven't changed there much over the decades.

The sign at the city limits still reads 931 just like it did when I started to school there in 1930. Names, with the exception of first names, on the mail boxes — Lane, Smith, Guest, Browning and Eudy.

And don't forget the Garners and Paynes, Laceys, Youngs and Gilmores.

Then there's the Clarks and Johnsons. These are all names that have appeared frequently in West Texas State student directories for the past half century.

Some of them like the Clarks, Johnsons, Butlers and Colvins have graced the WT basketball roster. Three or four all-Americans have come from that little city of 931 souls which has neither increased nor diminished over the years.

Turkey, as Doctor Townsend will testify, is rich in Texas lore which sets the Lone Star State apart.

Many of Turkey's past citizens have entered the legendary realm. Wills of "New San Antonio Rose" fame became a legend in his own time.

Since Doctor Townsend began writing a book about Jim Bob I've been seeing bumper stickers all over the Southwest proclaiming Turkey, Texas the home of Bob Wills.

Doctor Townsend has rooted out some other Turkey legends worth mentioning.

Dr. Joe Garner was one of those legends. Doc in Gunsmoke didn't have a thing on Dr. Joe. Doc Garner was as gentle as a lamb and as tough as a boot.

I'll never forget his foray into politics in 1933 when he used to sing "Nineteen hundred and thirty three, Ma and Rossevelt set us free."

Ma was Miram A. Ferguson, the nation's first woman governor. Ma was elected and Doc was a political power in Hall County.

One of Doc's patients was an old farmer living east of town. For obvious reasons I'm not going to mention any names. . .not because I'm afraid of libel but because I'm afraid of getting my throat cut. Some of his grandkids are probably going to WT right now.

The story goes that he called out to his wife one day:

"Nancy, where's my chewing tobacco?"

"In the corner of the living room!

The old fellow took a generous chew.

"Nancy, that cow has been in the house agin."

He was puttering around the shed one day and got a fish hook in his nose. Most farms kept ground tanks and a supply of cat fish for the table.

The old guy wrestled with the line and pole for a while trying to make the two miles to town so Doc Garner could help him.

He finally gave a passing youngster two bits to carry the pole and lead him to town. The first thing Doc Garner did was take out his pocket knife and whack off the line even with the hook.

"Well, I'll be danged," the patient grumbled. "I could have done that myself and saved a quarter."

One of the churches in the community met each Sunday night for Bible verse recitation.

"Jesus wept," was the favorite verse of the little fellows who wanted to get a hand in.

One impious old rancher who never made it "down the aisle" in spite of entreaties by devout wife and daughters caused a stir by teaching a small grandson an improvised version.

The little fellow got up and recited his granddad's version.

"Jesus wept, Moses crept and Joshua fell off the backdoor step."

And then he sat down as proud as a peacock. It provided town gossip and dire predictions about the final resting place the old rancher's soul for days.

Bud Townsend will tell you that the folks at Turkey, Texas are still good folks — all unchanging 931 of them.

Perhaps Turkey is only unchanging in my mind. Maybe I don't want it to change. I think everyone is entitled to one changless Shangra La and Turkey, Texas — home of Bob Wills — is mine.

Truck Broadsides Pickup Rig In Fatal Wreck

A 91-year-old Canyon man, known among the younger tennis set as a pretty good netter, was killed about 2:15 p.m. Monday when he pulled his pickup truck in front of a semi-tractor-trailer rig in Umbarger.

Oscar Ewing Thomas was sole occupant of the pickup truck, which Highway Patrolman James Haley said turned in from a gas station north across busy U.S. 60 and into the path of a loaded cattle truck driven by Gerald Ray Lindsey, 44, of Hereford.

Haley said Thomas was apparently attempting to turn from the north side of U.S. 60 across the two traffic lanes and was struck by the semi, which was eastbound on the highway.

Upon impact, the Thomas vehicle burst into flames and Canyon and Umbarger firemen fought the blaze.

Justice of the Peace W.W. Hancock of Amarillo pronounced him dead at the scene. Lindsey suffered minor injuries in the accident. He is a driver for Carlisle Trucking of Hereford.

Funeral rites for Thomas were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 26, at Schooler-Gordon Funeral Chapel in Canyon with Rev. Bill Kent of the First United Methodist Church of Canyon officiating. Interment was in Dreamland Cemetery at Canyon.

Thomas, a teacher in Grapevine until his retirement in 1938, resided southwest of Canyon. After his retirement, Thomas moved to the Canyon area and resided for a number of years with his sister, Mrs. C.L. Gordon-Cumming. He remained at the home after her death.

He was born at Coppell and was a life member of Masonic Lodge 288 at Grapevine. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. J.D. McNeely of Borger; three nieces, Mrs. Q.B. Workman of Tulia, Mrs. Jimmy Culwell of Amarillo, and Mrs. J.M. Barker of Plainview; and a nephew, Gary Thomas of Illinois.

Waste Disposal, Commission Topic

Randall County Commissioners Monday cautiously approached what has been billed as a joint waste disposal effort.

Commissioner John Fulgenzi, a member of ar ad hoc committee to study waste disposal problems, told commissioners they will be expected to financially support the effort of the committee.

According to Fulgenzi the committee has received $15,000 to put together a proposal for solid waste disposal in Potter and Randall County, and in Canyon and Amarillo.

The committee began working on the problem of solid waste in 1972 after an outside consulting firm did a preliminary feasibility study on waste management in the two county area.

Commissioner Jim Fletcher, responding to Fulgenzi's statement that the committee has a goal of putting all waste disposal management under a single body, said he doubts that the county has any business trying to oversee Canyon or Amarillo sewage treatment plants.

Fulgenzi said the proposals are still too tentative to tell what role the county might play.

In other business Monday commissioners discussed the purchase of two new trucks next year with specifications calling for them to handle snowplows.

They voted to advertise for bids for three new cars for the Randall County Sheriff's Department.

And, they voted a $50 a month raise for Brenda Brock, the secretary to the District Attorney Randy Sherrod.

Commissioners passed a resolution, drawn up by County Judge Woody Pond, calling for a raise and the fee schedules the law establishes for filing certain documents and instruments in various county offices. The resolution will be sent to members of the state legislature and to two regional associations of county judges and commissioners.

Mexican Dinner Reset For Sunday Feasting

Canyon Community Family Services will hold their annual "dinner" Sunday, March 2, at the cafeteria of Rex Reeves Elementary School.

The dinner, which features a dinner menu of either Mexican foods or roast beef, was originally scheduled last week end and was postponed due to inclement weather conditions. Early ticket purchasers will have their tickets honored at the dinner this Sunday.

Tickets are available from Western Auto and various individuals in the community in the annual dinner which is designed to aid needy families in Canyon. Last year $600 was raised through the dinner, according to Mrs. Carmen Hernandez of the organization. Funds raised are used to meet emergency situations among the community's residents.

Jacobs said the school district is now simply playing awaiting game as it watches the machinations in Austin to alter the current financial program for school districts.

And, they're playing a waiting game, too, on a decision from the Texas Commissioner of Education on a Canyon schools appeal of a county school board decision allowing five families in the north part of the district to have their property annexed by the Amarillo School District.

Jacobs has predicted somewhat gloomily that any of several plans for restructing the state's portion of financial assistance to local districts could spell trouble for Canyon's financial picture.

Tentative plans call for issuing bonds through an election next fall, he said, but even if that date were adhered to it would take another two to 2½ years for construction on the new schools to be completed.

Another key question in whether the board will pursue the construction projects rests with the state of the economy of the Panhandle area. If Amarillo continues to grow, as it has in the past, the schools will probably be needed, Jacobs said. But, if the economic slump now being faced around the country impacts with equal force in Amarillo and surrounding area, the projected student enrollment for new schools would have to be reassessed.

"The worst thing that could happen is to build a school and have no kids to put in it," he said.

He's hoping the national economy and regional economy will stabilize by next fall to more accurate enrollment predictions can be made.

With today's construction prices, Jacobs said he's flabbergasted at the amount of money his rough figuring reveals would be needed to finance two new schools.

His estimates are in the $5 million to $6 million range.

"I get a little depressed every time I think of this," he said.

"That annotator is a music critic for the San Francisco newspaper and has also written several books on music and music criticism," he stated.

"I think I have a good chance," Townsend said, "but the competition will be keen."

Townsend was asked by United Artists to write album notes on a four-record album which they put out last spring. Townsend sent them reams of copy on the famed Wills — and the company used it all, incorporating the notes into a separate booklet.

"When I wrote that I never dreamed this thing would make the history that it's made," he said. "When I got the job I just wanted to get out an album so people would recognize me as an expert in the field.

"But, I did my best and I guess the moral is to do your best. This proves one thing — you can take a minimum of talent and a maximum of work and do wonders."

While in the New York area for the awards ceremonies, Townsend will also continue research for his forthcoming book about Wills and his various bands. He plans to look up major recording stars at the banquet in an effort to determine how much they were influenced by the trend set in the 1930s and 1940s by Wills and his Texas Playboys.

The title of the album for which Townsend wrote his notes is "For the Last Time — Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys."

Wreck In Umbarger

By REBA RAEF

HELLO.

WASN'T THAT BLIZZARD of last weekend a lu lu? We did measure .17 inches of moisture and the freezing weather did retard the sprouting of growing things, but we could have done without the wind.

In the height of the storm, some 10 head of cattle were scattered in the storm, so it will be a while before they are all back where they belong.

We hope this will be our only blizzard of the season.

UMBARGER WAS THE scene of a tragic wreck Monday, when a loaded cattle truck hit a pickup at the intersection of highway 60 and the road going South to Buffalo Lake.

The driver of the pickup, Oscar Thomas, from Canyon was killed instantly. Jerry Lindsay, from Hereford, driver of the cattle rig, was not injured.

It took about three hours to get the highway completely cleared up after the wreck.

Prayer Retreat Begins Friday

"Prayer — Power of the Christian" will be the theme of a retreat to be held Feb. 28 — March 1 at the High Plains Baptist Encampment for university students of the area.

Speakers for the retreat are to be Mike Lundy, Bible teacher at Texas Tech University's Baptist Student Union; Jim Hancock, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canyon; and Bill Webb, director of the Baptist Student Union at West Texas State University.

Labor Team Evaluating WT Office

Two women representing the U.S. Department of Labor are on the West Texas State University campus through the week to survey the campus placement office.

Ms. Beverly S. Bell and Mrs. Sharon Fitzsimons are part of a six-member team evaluating the placement process at 30 colleges and universities throughout the United States. The institutions are equally divided between predominatly white and predominately black enrollments.

West Texas State is being compared with Texas Southern University; the two were selected because their student population statistics are comparable.

"When we started out we had the idea that white placement offices would be operating more effectively than black placement offices, Mrs. Fitzsimons noted. "But after the first six schools were surveyed, we found that black schools were operating more effectively."

"Of course it is very individual," she continued, and depends on a wide number of factors.

The survey is to help the Labor Department determine what areas in placement need more assistance. The two women will contact 100 seniors through personal and hand-done interviews, as well as survey employers and alumni.

"West Texas State University is very nice," Mrs. Fitzsimons noted. "I'm impressed with the library, and the students."

Cancer Campaign Goal Set Locally

A goal of $6,000 has been set for the 1975 drive of the Randall County chapter of the American Cancer Association with an advanced campaign set for mid-March and residential canvas slated for April 7-10.

Serving as crusade chairman locally will be John Childs.

The local chapter has available several educational films for clubs and other groups use. Films of all types for special interest groups including public schools and men or women's groups are available through the society by making advance reservation with Mrs. Stephen Hines, 655-9978.

Teachers Attend Convention Activities In Fort Worth

Attending the Texas Classroom State Teachers convention in Fort Worth, Texas, February 20-22 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel as delegates from the Canyon Classroom Teachers Association were Mrs. Patsy Sommer, president; Mrs. Edith Priddy, vice-president elect; Mrs. Shirley Shadix, local legislative chairman; and Herman Demus, state legislative committee member.

During the convention, the state delegates of Texas supported the metric system to be emphasized in the instructional program, a move to smaller classes, endorsement and participation by teachers to candidates who are friends of education.

A request was made to the Texas state legislature for teacher salaries to be raised to be maintained at an amount at least 10% above the national average for teachers. The convention supported a desire for unification with the National Education Association and to the support of the NEA legislative program, as well as the Texas State Teachers Association legislative program for Texas.

The convention supported the legislative stand in Texas taken by the legislators on the equal rights for women amendment.

Little Friends Storytime Set For Thursdays

Story hours for "Little Friends" are scheduled for Thursday afternoons weekly at the Canyon City Library.

Pre-school children in the 3-5 age bracket are invited for the story hours which are to be held from 3:15 to 3:45 p.m. each Thursday under the sponsorship of the Canyon Friends of the Library.

Story hour timing is set so that preschools have completed their naptimes and it will coincide with mothers picking up older children at school.

The project will include a variety of children's stories and literature. Some stories will be interpreted by the children through use of hand puppets and small children's plays. The project is designed to later include entertaining children's films for the group.

Friends of the Library committee representatives handling the story hour are Dr. and Mrs. J.B. Roberts, Viola Robins, Jan Welch and Jane Stephens.

much more difficult to have cooperation with a state man than with local people."

Commissioner Paul Lindsey, an outspoken critic of uncontrolled subdivision developments, where, he says, residents demand city-type services but pay only a minimum in taxes, agreed the county should have the power granted by the legislation.

"We need to exercise more control," he said. "At the same time we need some restraint built in."

The bill now pending in the Texas House Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs, would have far-reaching impact on the commissioners' ability to deal with growth in the county.

As the bill is written now, it pertains only to those counties with populations of more than 100,000. But, Hutton told commissioners it might be possible to alter the bill in committee or in debate so Randall County, with a population of about 65,000, could be included under its provisions.

The bill states: "To protect public health, safety, and general welfare, a county, acting through its commissioners court, may regulate subdivision development and maintain reasonable construction standards within the unincorporated territory of the county by orders adopted under the provisions of this act."

As under current law, subdivision developers are required under the proposal to present for approval plats of their property to the county commissioners. The commissioners may approve or reject the plat, but until it is approved the plat cannot be filed with the county clerk.

In addition, the commissioners may adopt the following requirements for all subdivisions within the county:

*prescribe the minimum size of lots, establish consistent standards for all roads and drainage areas.

*establish reasonable filing fees for the processing of the plats and other related documents.

*establish requirements for, and inspect, the installation of septic tanks or sewer lines for liquid waste disposal and establish procedures for the disposal of solid waste.

*establish construction standards and require the issuance of permits by the county for all structures designed for human habitation or use, except for structures used in agricultural pursuits.

The commissioners could also appoint a building and land management administrator to issue permits and work with developers.

To regulate land use under the bill, the commissioners may zone and they may also set the full criteria for population densities, building types and locations.

The measure also has some teeth to enforce the provisions of the act. "If a person violates or threatens to violate the provisions of this Act, or a regulation of the commissioners court adopted under this act the commissioners court may bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction to enjoin the violation," the bill states. "An individual, association, or corporation that violates this Act commits a Class C misdemeanor. Each day a violation occurs is a separate violation."

sion and approved in open meeting was extension of a new 5-year contract to Football Coach and Athletic Director Gene Mayfield.

This action was taken to legalize a similar move in December of questionable legality.

Regents approved a move making the WTSU department of nursing a school of nursing. Dr. Watkins told the board that such a move would be extremely beneficial and allow it to be competitive with other regional nursing schools.

The board voted to accept $965,000 from the sale of subordinate ad valorem tax bonds by the state recently.

Some of the funds are earmarked for construction of a new fine arts building.

Regents voted to increase salaries of all regular employes as of Feb. 1.

The schedule calls for raises of 13 percent for those drawing less than $876 a month and $114 a month for those whose salaries run from $876 to $1267.

Those with base pay of more than $1267 but not greater than $1935 will get a 9 percent raise while those with a base pay of more than $1935 will receive an additional $174 a month.

Travel expense was increased from 12 cents to 16 cents a mile and per diem from $18 to $22 a day.

Regents authorized school officials to engage an architect to draw plans for a building at the Nance Ranch to replace one destroyed by fire.

The building will be of steel and masonry. Dr. Charles Smallwood, head of the school of agriculture, said plans call for letting bids by May 2, tentative date for next meeting of the board.

Dr. Watkins passed along a recommendation that the American Quarterhorse Association be approached in an effort to get its Quarterhorse Hall of Fame located at Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Regent Roach, also a member of the Quarterhorse board, said making such a proposal will require considerable work and money.

Recommendation that an effort be made to secure its location here came from the historical society board.

Seamstresses Stretch Home Clothing Budget

By BECKY HALL
County Extension Agent

Home sewing has become an increasingly popular way to beat the high cost of living in recent years.

Stretching the clothing dollar can be fun when one looks her best and knows she saved money doing it.

Some advantages to home sewing.

*Clothes can be made to fit easier than making major alterations in readymade items.

*The seamstress can usually make exactly what she wants in the fabric desired.

*Home seamstresses can save 60-70 per cent over the cost of readymade clothing prices.

*Quality of workmanship is usually better and lasts longer on a homemade garment.

*Feelings of pride and accomplishment result from home sewing.

Residents Can File

Randall County residents with a yearning for the local political arena have only a week left to file for any of several public offices which are up for election in early April.

As it stands now, incumbent Canyon City Commissioners J. Pat Stephens and Willis Harrison will seek re-election to their seats unopposed.

In fact, with offices open on four local governmental boards, only one non-incumbent has filed to seek election.

Filing deadline for the city of Canyon commission election is 5 p.m. Friday. Forms for candidates are available at the city manager's office at city hall.

WT Prof Appointed To Committees

Dr. Ron Huffstutler, director of continuing education at West Texas State University, has recently been appointed to serve on two continuing education committees for the region and the state.

"One is a Regional Consortium on Continuing Education which is being held at Texas Tech University," Huffstutler said, "and the other is the Publicity Committee for 1975 under the Texas Association for Community Service and Continuing Education."

Huffstutler attended the regional consortium meeting at Tech Feb. 18 along with representatives from 17 other universities, colleges and community colleges.

"This committee discussed the need for regional planning and coordination of the off-campus efforts of each college and university within the region with the view of making an attempt to save the taxpayers' money by elimnating duplications of effort and eliminating competition in certain areas where none of the institutions involved really have a program that supports itself," he said.

Mr. Wilbur Hurt, director of community services for the Coordinating Board of the Texas State College and University System, encouraged the group in the hope that this region might become the pilot region and the leader throughout the state in an effort to better coordinate the off-campus efforts of the state-supported and private institutions of higher education.

The Publicity Committee of 1975 under the Texas Association for Community Service and Continuing Education is scheduled to have its first meeting in early March, according to Huffstutler. Dr. James R. Bradley of Texas A&M University is chairman of that committee.

Windbreak Trees Available

Palo Duro Soil and Water Conservation District officials are now taking orders for windbreak trees from area farmers or local townspeople.

Bill Casteel, soil conservation service district conservationist, said orders may be placed at the SCS office behind the ASCS office in Canyon. Trees should be planted in the spring between February and April.

In addition to ordering the windbreak trees for local residents, the SCS officials will also offer assistance in planning windbreak designs.

The windbreaks "reduce soil blowing, control snow deposition, conserve moisture, protect crops, livestock, wildlife and increase the natural beauty of an area," he said.

The windbreak trees can be planted in single rows or multiple rows. When planted in single rows, a species such as Eastern Red Cedar should be used, he said, with plants spaced six to eight feet apart. When planted in multiple rows, one row should be evergreen and the other row a species useful to wildlife.

Appliance Parade Open To Consumers

By BECKY HALL
County Extension Agent

Consumers will "hear and be heard" Tuesday, March 4, during an Appliance Parade of major appliances from 9:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m. at the Farm Bureau Building, 1714 5th Ave. in Canyon with repeat programs from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Appliance Parade will be a series of 5, 20-minute programs on how to buy, use and care for today's major appliances — followed by questions and answers.

With more and more appliances being acquired every year, a growing number of the consumer-conscious public is asking for information on the topics being presented.

In addition to the educational programs conducted by area Home Economists, exhibits will include microwave appliances, dishwashers, ranges, refrigerators, freezers.

Local dealers will explain features and answer questions about exhibit items before and after the series of presentations.

Appliance Parade is sponsored by the Randall County Family Living Committee and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, in cooperation with local appliance dealers, Anderson's Appliance and Western Auto.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN

Top 'Pops' Singer Onstage At WT Fieldhouse March 1

Award-winning singer Olivia Newton-John and singer Albert Hammond will appear at the West Texas State University Field House March 1 at 8 p.m.

The Welsh Miss Newton-John, though not born into show business, developed an interest in it at an early age. When she was five her family moved to Australia where, as her father served as Master of Ormond College, she whiled away the hours making up tunes on the family grand piano.

The determined singer won a contest which earned her a trip to London, where she again organized several acts which kept her in not only night clubs but on British television.

Her climb to success began with the recording of her first hit single "If Not For You" in 1971, followed by "Banks of the Ohio" and finally "Let Me Be There." Each step earned her more notoriety and awards.

Also appearing with Miss Newton-John will be Albert Hammond, known for 1973's first gold record "It Never Rains in Southern California." Hammond brings to Canyon a rather glamorous background of singing in strip joints in Casablanca, manufacturing Cherry Blossom shoe polish, leading his band "The Diamond Boys" to seven sweep wins of a Battle of the Bands contest and dancing in the ballet "Billy the Kid."

Hammond now teams with Mike Hazlewood, a songwriter, and works out of California. The pair wrote a children's educational television show from which Hammond's single, "Little Arrows," originated.

Tickets are $6 for general admission, and are on sale at the WTSU Activities Center office.

Percussionist Kim Sharp, a student of Rowie Durden, will perform the Sabre Dance by Katchaturian, Hexagon and Caribbean Drummer by Burnsminor by Hatch, Variauons by Frock, and Alegre Muchacho by Abel. Joining Ms. Sharp in the final selection will be percussionists D'lynn Hudson, Paula Williams, Frank Davis, Greg Williams, Allen Hunt and Roy Darden.

Kim Sharp, who is listed in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," holds the rank of First Sergeant in Scabbard and Blade. A member of Angel Corps and the ROTC Color Guard, she has been awarded the Academic Achievement Insignia by ROTC, and will be the first woman to be commissioned from WTSU by ROTC. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Sharp of Wildorado.

WTSU Homecoming To Come Back Home

A rejuvenated West Texas State University homecoming will come back home to Canyon next year with more festivities than ever planned.

A downtown Canyon parade will be revived for the affair, it was decided last week by members of the university's homecoming committee.

And, the annual Miss WTSU Pageant, held in recent years in Amarillo, will also return to the city.

Weldon Trice of the committee said outside-type, Western barbecue will also be part of the homecoming activities for the coming year.

Student complaints over holding of some homecoming activities in Amarillo—20 miles from the university campus—apparently spawned the coming home of homecoming, Trice said.

Trice said the festivities will begin Oct. 16 with an evening bonfire, a traidtional part of the homecoming events, which has been held on campus.

A homecoming carnival, also on campus in recent years, will be retained next fall even though it was instituted about three years ago to replace the traditional downtown parade. The carnival will be held on Oct. 17 on campus. That night the Miss WTSU Pageant will be held in Canyon, possibly in one of the local schools.

Saturday, Oct. 18, will be the big day for the festivities with a parade tentatively scheduled for 10 a.m. here. Following that, homecoming sponsors will serve a Western-style outdoor barbecue to students, exes and friends.

Then, that afternoon, the West Texas State University Buffaloes will meet the Drake Bulldogs in a football game at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium.

"It will be good to get it back down here," Trice, who is president of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, said of the homecoming events.

School winners in both fifth and sixth grade levels will be advanced to the county spelling bee set for March 18 where they will compete with fifth and sixth grade spellers already selected from Gene Howe Elementary School for the county junior championship.

Top spelling students from Canyon Junior High School were selected in spelldown eliminations on Tuesday, Feb. 25. The junior high school champions will be competing for the senior county championship and the senior county champion will be eligible to compete in the 1975 Spelling Bee in Amarillo with other counties of the Panhandle.

Blizzard Was Bad

By MARY NEAL HENRY

THE BLIZZARD SATURDAY was a bad one. The snow was wet. Water dripped off your face when you got back into the pick-up from loading hay or feeding. (Got my old job back.) (I'd been fired on Tuesday.)

The snow stuck to the cattle and made them look even colder. It was a blessing that the wind laid by dark. Snow banks were high on some East-West roads.

Other roads were completely dry.

Monday melted most of the snow left and Tuesday left some of the deeper drifts around the place.

Asquith's Articles Accepted

Three articles authored by West Texas State University Associate Professor of Geology George Asquith have been accepted for publication by two scientific journals.

"Transverse Braid Bars in the Upper Triassic Trujillo Sandstone of the Texas Panhandle" will be published in the "Journal of Geology." Junior author of the article is Scott Cramer, the first WTSU graduate student to receive a master's degree in geology, who now works as an exploration geologist for Union Texas Petroleum in Midland. Asquith worked on this project through an Organized Research Grant issued in 1973.

"We study triassic sandstones to learn more about how they are formed," Asquith said, "because we may have to exploit them in the future for water."

Dr. Asquith's "Origin of Optical Zoning in Andularia," to be published in the "Texas Journal of Science," is the result of research funded through a WTSU Organized Research Grant in 1971.

"There was a theory presented about optical zoning in andularia in the 1950's," Asquith noted, "and this is an alternate idea."

"Andularia is a rather rare form of potassium feldspar," he continued. "The reason why it is so important to look at its optical properties is that it tells us something about the cooling history of the rocks."

Also in the "Texas Journal of Science" will appear "Wave Surface Model of Polarized Light Behavior in a Biaxial Cyrstal." This paper discusses how to use the wave surface model designed by Asquith to teach his geology classes in optical mineralogy and optical petrology.

"The three-dimensional model is to aid the student in understanding the optical behavior of minerals," Asquith noted, "and it is also used to aid the student in determining optical orientation. He must know optical orientation to identify the mineral."

Asquith has published 13 papers in Scientific Journals.

Blizzard Weekend Hampers Fun

By DORIS MCKEE

WELL, IT SEEMS we have now had the blizzard of the year. Man, what a weekend.

As for myself, I certainly do hope this is to be the last icy flakes we'll see this year.

The kids really enjoyed the big snow banks and sliding around. Some of them were very disappointed that it cleared up so fast.

I did notice some adults out too, as Ron Pingle got his snowmobile out and enjoyed an afternoon of fun. Boy, those things really do zip over the op of the snow and ice.

SURE DO HOPE no one out here got off to a late start Sunday morning. The clocks were moved forward. One hour Sunday morning, as we all went on Daylight Savings Time.

WANT TO WISH my husband, Royce, a Happy Birthday. He said he would just as soon forget it, but we never allow that.

Guess we'll go out to eat and possibly take in a movie. We seem to need something to celebrate to get out much.

CONGRATULATIONS TO Mr. and Mrs. Cary Logan of 140 Plaza Drive of the recent birth of their first child.

child.

THE DOCTORS HAVE finally released, Pat Reed, and she was able to return to her work last Friday. Just take it easy and maybe you won't have any problems.

ALBERT RINNE LEFT last Tuesday morning for Sweetwater, Texas where he worked thru Friday. He came home Friday evening just ahead of the snow. He said it was up in the 70's there. Albert is a surveyor for Santa Fe.

WAS TALKING TO Faye and Peck Risner Monday. Their daughter-in-law, Darlene, has been here visiting. Darlene and Gregg live in Houston.

KENNETH AND DORIS Wallace had company over the weekend. Mr. & Mrs. N. T. Jackson of Safford, Arizona came in Friday evening and stayed until Monday morning.

Doris and Kenneth were unable to show them around very much due to the weekend blizzard, but they did manage to get out and drive around some Sunday afternoon. Maybe things will be better, if they come again.

* * *

THE SCOUT LEADER training program last Thursday night was interesting, but only a few showed up. I fully intended to go, but the flu just hadn't gotten thru with me by then. Maybe I'll make the next one.

The cub scouts are working on things for their next pack meeting. I don't have a date on it yet.

BOY SCOUT TROOP 77 sponsored a bingo party on Friday night, February 21 in the recreation building. It started at 7:30 p.m. and lasted until a little after 10:00.

This was the troop's first fund raising project. There was a very good turn out and they did make money. Some of us mothers made candies for them to sell, they also sold cakes and coffee.

There were lots of nice prizes. Several companys from Amarillo donated coupons and certificates. The Scouts thank them very much. A very special thanks goes to the Borden Company for donating several prizes, and also letting us use their tables and chairs.

Also thanks to Siesta for the lovely lazy Suzan that they donated, and which was won by Mrs. Joy Voiles on a blackout game.

We are very proud of our Scouts and hope they will continue to grow and learn.

* * *

KENNETH AND BARBARA Lett and their family went to Gainsville, Texas over the weekend. They visited Ken's folks, Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth P. Lett, and also did some work on their property there. They will be moving there in the near future.

* * *

WOULD LIKE TO wish Johnny Hunt a Happy Birthday on February 21. It was his 10th. Johnny is the son of Earl and Betty Hunt.

WE HAD AS our guests this weekend—Royce's sister, LaVera Buckalew, and her children, Sherry, Kellie, Rhnee and Bryan, of Lubbock.

They got here Friday in time to attend the bingo party and didn't get to get out at all Saturday. They went back to Lubbock late Saturday afternoon with, Bill and Sandra Speck, who had been visiting relatives in Amarillo. If at all possible LaVera and the kids hope to come back for a few days during spring vacation.

GUESS I'LL SIGN off for now. It was too bad for much news. Keep on reading.

THOUGHT FOR THIS week: "Wind and snow may fall and blow, but the sun will bring those smiles back everytime."

SEE YA.

New Scholarships Available For ROTC

College juniors and seniors enrolled in the West Texas State University Army ROTC programs are eligible for four new $1,000 scholarships.

The scholarships are presented by the National Bank of Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio in memory of General Creighton W. Abrams, the late Army Chief of Staff.

College junior cadets entering at the beginning of the 1975-76 school year will receive the first two $1,000 scholarships.

Two additional $1,000 scholarships will be awarded the following year. A total of four will be awarded every following year.

The scholarships will be awarded on the basis of demonstrated achievement in ROTC and the recommendation of the professors of military science who teach the course.

Since the General Creighton W. "Abe" Abrams Army ROTC Scholarship Award will be privately funded, recipients will incur no additional military obligation, nor will they be required to apply for regular Army commission or remain on active duty for more than two years.

Cadets interested in learning more about the "Abe" Abrams award should contact professors in the WT military science department.

Elementary Art Goes On Display

Young artists from Rex Reeves Elementary School and Gene Howe School will be exhibiting their work in the Randall County Courthouse beginning Friday and lasting through the first two weeks of March.

The students, kindergarten through sixth grade, will display their talents in watercolors, tempera and finger painting, chaulk drawings, clay sculptures and works in plaster. Other art media will include yarn and paper collages.

As a part of Public School Week, school officials, teachers and students invite parents and community members to come by the courthouse and the schools next week and observe the educational process in action.
